Topics of the Day.

A woman's convention assembled on Monday night, at the Cooper Institute, New York, the occasion being the fourth anniversary of the American Woman's Suffrage Association. Lucy Stone, Julia Ward Howe and many others made addresses, most of them having the usual characteristics of Woman's Rights speeches. One lady, however, instead of harping upon the one string of the ballot and married women's rights, struck the newer and more plaintive chord of working women's grievances. She said: "I have never wanted the ballot. I believe it belongs to the men who have got it; but I come to ask you in the name of humanity if there can be any society organized that will represent the unemployed, the employed and let the public know they are oppressing the poor girls. Men are strong; they can get together and ask what they want; they can organize in large bodies, but the working-women are the most oppressed race in the United States."

The renewal of the excitement in Wall street yesterday will perhaps convince people that the panic is not yet over, and that it is not a mere disturbance of the stock market. The results of this panic will yet be found to affect the whole community. Real estate has already been seriously affected, and there are now hardly any sales of land in the city. To show the extent to which prices have fallen, it might be mentioned that a corner lot on the upper part of Broadway, which was hitherto held at $65,000, was sold the other day for $22,000. People may make up their minds that land will command much lower prices hereafter, and that rents will be cheaper next spring than they have been for years. Labor must also feel the results of the universal disturbance of values, and we may look to see much trouble and discontent among our working men this winter. There is no advantage in shutting our eyes to the truth, for, sooner or later, we shall have to face the situation. —N. Y. Paper.

A terrible suicide was committed on Monday morning at the County Clerk's office in Paterson, N. J. Edward English, aged about twenty years, while sitting chatting with some of the clerks in the office, suddenly drew a pistol, held it up to the side of his head, blew his brains out and fell a lifeless corpse upon the floor. In his pocket was found a note reading as follows: "Etta Ford knows all. May God love and protect her. Send my love to Alexandria, Virginia." During the last year he had been paying attentions to Miss Marietta Ford, a very pretty young lady, daughter of Mr. Edward Ford, of Clark street, but, becoming very much dissipated, it was understood that lately his attentions were rejected by the lady.

President Grant, in conversation on Saturday, expressed his views freely in regard to the financial situation, saying that he saw in passing events the first steps towards resumption of specie payment. The shrinkage of values necessary for a return to a specie basis had now taken place. Silver once in circulation, he believed that greenbacks would never be a discount for silver. If he were engaged in writing his annual message to Congress, he should recommend positive authority to reissue the forty-four millions of reserve. He favored an absolute prohibition to the payment of interest on deposits. The President said he thought he would recommend a Post-office Bank.

The case of Kate Milnor vs. Jacob M. Steiger, terminated in a verdict of $3,200 for plaintiff in the Supreme Court on Saturday. This suit was brought by the plaintiff for false imprisonment and slander. The plaintiff and her husband rented a house of Steiger in 1871, and in October of that year Mrs. Milnor left the house to join her husband in Florida. As her goods were passing through Newark on wagons, they were seized for rent by Steiger, who subsequently caused Mrs. Milnor's arrest on the charge of stealing certain articles belonging to him, which he alleged were among her goods. She was taken before Justice William P. Miller and committed to the County Jail, where she remained three days, after which she was honorably discharged. It was also alleged that Steiger called Mrs. Milnor a thief. The case was tried a term or two ago, resulting in a verdict of $3,000 for the plaintiff, and was carried to the Supreme Court at Trenton, where the verdict was set aside on the ground that the damages were excessive, with the provision that if the plaintiff would accept $1,250 it should be allowed to stand. This Mr. A. Q. Keasbey, Mrs. Milnor's counsel, refused to allow, and a new trial took place, resulting as above stated. The plea of justification was withdrawn on the second trial, admitting that there was no larceny.

The East Newark Horse Railroad is expected to be commenced during the present month, and cars be running between Fifth street, Harrison, and Broad street, Newark, during the coming winter.

A serious accident occurred on the New Jersey Central Railroad at the Bergen Point station, on Monday evening. The half-past five express from Jersey City passed the station about ten minutes before six o'clock. Directly in front of the station the several tracks form a perfect network. A long train of empty coal cars, with the locomotive attached, was in waiting here for the express to pass. This train should have been on a side track, the express having the right of way. As the express approached the station the whistle was sounded at the curve, giving the usual warning. The station master waved the white flag, and down thundered the train at the rate of forty miles an hour. The coal train was at this time backing up on the same track, and the engineer saw his danger when it was too late. Five seconds later the locomotive struck the rear car, smashing it forward into the next, that in turn into the next, and ere it stopped over a dozen cars were mere pieces and splinters of wood and broken, twisted bits of iron. The locomotive was completely demolished, and the passenger coaches were so ruined that they had to be lifted from the track with jack-screws. The passengers were thrown from their seats; all were badly frightened and many were considerably bruised, but none were seriously hurt. A brakeman on the express train was crushed and was taken one side to die after being made as comfortably as possible. In a few hours the track was cleared of the wreck and trains running as usual, everybody congratulating themselves that the casualty was no worse.

The Associated Press courier who carried the report of the Modoc execution from Fort Klamath to the telegraph station at Jacksonville, Oregon, rode a distance of 92 miles in six hours and fifty-five minutes, over a mountain road of more than usual roughness, employing only three well-selected horses for the journey. The last forty-two miles he accomplished in exactly two hours, beating his principal competitor by thirty minutes, and getting control of the wire which was necessarily occupied in the transmission of the Associated Press report until it was too late to forward any other.

The Post Office Department has forwarded to Germany the draft of a postal-treaty with this country, fixing the postage at two cents. There is much reason to believe that the draft will be accepted by the German Government without important amendment.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J.,

As a Country Home for Business Men and Others.

BLOOMFIELD is located four miles from the centre of Newark, and twelve miles from New York City, is on Elevated Ground, with as beautiful sites for Homes of families as any within a radius of 25 miles of New York. Its location is healthy beyond dispute.

Facilities of Travel

to Newark and to New York are unsurpassed: the Newark & Bloomfield Road (D. L. & W. to New York) with 22 trains daily; the Montclair (to New York direct.) with nearly as many; the Watchung, nearly completed; nine depots on the three roads and so located as to accommodate all parts of the town. A Horse Car Railroad to Newark, cars running every half hour.

Educational Privileges.

Bloomfield was the pioneer township for FREE EDUCATION in this State. We have now as fine a Public School as any in New Jersey—the buildings, grounds, etc., as well as the conduct of the various departments—High School, Grammar and Primary—are all that can be desired.

Our Churches

embrace the principal denominations, and all are in a flourishing condition. The moral and social status of the community is of a high order.

Real Estate,

Improved and unimproved is offered at prices below those of other towns the same distance from the large cities. Property here has steadily advanced in value for the last fifteen years. The causes which produced that advance have just now greatly augmented. Intelligent business men can judge at once whether this town is not SAFE as a place of investment, independent of the wish for a pleasant and desirable home. Improved and unimproved lands in great variety may be found upon application to our Real Estate Agencies.
